Home Where They Belong

When I first tiptoed into homeschooling years ago, I thought "we'll take it a year at a time." I figured handling the younger years would be pretty simple, but I just wasn't so sure about the upper grades.

And as the years have passed, our love of homeschooling and confidence has grown and grown. Now we can't imagine NOT homeschooling all the way through high school.

Of course, I still get all the questions - What about algebra and chemistry? How are you going to do the labs? Isn't he going to miss out on prom? How will he be able to handle college if he hasn't ever been in a classroom? Will colleges take your homemade transcript seriously?

And I humbly answer them the best that I can because I know that I started out with the same questions too.

Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ.
Philippians 1:6

I wish that others could see what I see - the variety of curriculums, resources, and classes and available for our children, the way the Lord opens the doors for the right opportunities for them, and the maturity, responsibility, and leadership that these kids possess.

We aren't raising a bunch of sheep that will be fed to the wolves. We are raising shepherds who will help guide and protect the sheep. And I really can't imagine it any other way.

Enjoy every minute!
